Archie Arnold Injures Eye.
Archie Arnold was treated at Fleming County Hospital, Wednesday for an eye injury he sustained while operating a chain saw on his farm on the Cherry Grove Road. When the chain saw became entangles in tree branches it struck him on the forehead severing the upper and lower lids of the left eye. However, the eyeball was untouched by the saw barbs. Another man was with him at the time of the accident.

Band Needs $700.
The Fleming County High School band will participate in the Dogwoods Art Festival April 8 through 12. Over 80 bands from the eastern section of the state will complete for awards. This is one of Knoxville's most scenic seasons with the dogwoods in bloom. The band will leave by bus Thursday and return Saturday. Two nights housing cost $450 and bus transportation is $250, which totals approximately $700. Band members will furnish their own food and chaperones will drive their own cars. "The cost of operating a high school band is tremendous," said Bill Cowan, president of the Band Boosters.
