FFA Horse Judging Team Places Fifth in State Competition.
The State FFA Horse Judging Contest was held at Murray State University on July 21. The Fleming County FFA entered a four-person team in the competition. For the past couple of months Sarah Ison, Michelle Morelly, Jovannah Black and Meg Hall have been working hard to hone their horse judging skills. They used Internet sites, books, met at the library, did farm visits and participated in a clinic at Morehead State to prepare for the state horse judging finals. At the competition the girls were required to judge the following classes: two western pleasure, one hunter under saddle, one hunter back, one reigning pattern 6, two gelding halter classes, and one more halter class. They also had to give a set of oral reasons for two classes. After six hours of competition, the team placed fifth in the state. "The Fleming County FFA and coach Bobby Pease are very proud of their accomplishments," a press release said.
