

UKKD receives Gold Well Workplace Award

SUBMITTED CONTENT

UK King’s Daughters announced it has been awarded the Gold Well Workplace Award by the Wellness Alliance, recognizing it as one of the nation’s healthiest workplaces.

As a Well Workplace Award-winning organization, King’s Daughters has demonstrated a commitment to protecting and enhancing the health and well-being of every team member, according to the news release. All Well Workplace Award winners have used the patented “7 Benchmarks” model to help build and shape their wellness programs.

The 7 Benchmarks are:

1. Committed and Aligned Leadership
 2. Collaboration in Support of Wellness
 3. Collecting Meaningful Data to Evolve a Wellness Strategy
 4. Crafting an Operating Plan
 5. Choosing Initiatives that Support the Whole Employee
 6. Cultivate Supportive Health Promoting Environments, Policies, and Practices
 7. Conduct Evaluation, Communicate, Celebrate, and Iterate
- “We are very mindful when it comes to balancing the needs of our team,” Vice President and Chief Human Resources Officer Jamie Parsons said. “By investing in the wellness of our team, we also are investing in the great care our team provides our patients.”

X Rock Radio asks for community support

ASHLAND

X Rock Radio in Ashland is asking the community for support to “ensure the station can remain free, accessible and on the air for everyone,” according to a press release.

X Rock delivers authentic rock programming without paywalls, subscriptions or corporate control, the release stated.

The costs of operating an independent radio station continue to rise, so listener support is more important than ever, according to station leadership.

“X Rock Radio survives because of the people who believe in it,” the release stated. “Every broadcast, every song and every moment on the air is made possible by listeners who understand the importance of independent media. We are asking, humbly and sincerely, for your help.”

Donations will directly support essential operations, the release said.

Visit X Rock Radio’s official platforms — thexrock1.com, X Rock Radio News on Facebook/Instagram and XRockRadioKY1 on X (formerly Twitter) — for more information.

‘Groundbreaking achievement’ for Ramey-Estep

STAFF REPORT

RUSH Ramey-Estep/RE-Group announced its designation as a Certified Community Behavioral Health Clinic, which it called a “historic milestone as a Behavioral Health Service Organization in Kentucky to earn this prestigious status,” according to a news release.

Ramey-Estep is now among a select group of providers recognized for meeting the highest national standards for access, quality, accountability and integrated care across Kentucky, the release stated.

Ramey-Estep called the accomplishment a “groundbreaking achievement” that “underscores Ramey-Estep/RE-Group’s commitment to delivering comprehensive, integrated care that addresses the full spectrum of behavioral health needs for individuals and families.”

As a Certified Community Behavioral Health Clinic, Ramey-Estep will be able to expand access to timely, high-quality behavioral health services across the communities it serves in Ashland, Crestview Hills, Georgetown, Grayson and Rush.

Treasurer’s office aims to expand, streamline unclaimed property returns

BY MCKENNA HORSLEY

KENTUCKY LANTERN

FRANKFORT In the year to come, Kentucky Treasurer Mark Metcalf hopes to expand and streamline services in his office that return unclaimed property to Kentuckians.

Metcalf said in a recent interview with the Kentucky Lantern that his office has returned about $80.5 million in unclaimed property since he took office at the start of 2024.

Unclaimed property can take a variety of forms, like paychecks or refunds for insurance or utilities. Metcalf recalled one story of a family living in Austin, Texas, being reconnected with a dormant estate of a deceased relative who lived in Kentucky. The family was unaware of $1.7 million in the account for three years.

MCKENNA HORSLEY | KENTUCKY LANTERN

Republican Kentucky State Treasurer Mark Metcalf says his office has pilot programs in the works to expand unclaimed property returns.

“We called the family in Austin and said there’s $1.7 million which was not accounted for when the estate was opened,” Metcalf said.

The treasurer’s office tries to make the process to search for unclaimed property “as user-friendly as possible,” Metcalf said. Kentuckians who want to check if they have any property in the system can go to the treasurer’s website, treasury.ky.gov, and click on “Unclaimed Property” in the menu at the top of the page. Then, they may fill out the search with their information to see if the database has any matches. If they do have a match, then they will be directed to begin the process to reclaim the money.

People can also make nationwide searches for unclaimed property at missingmoney.com.

“It’s their money. We intend to get it back,” Metcalf said. “It is public money in the sense that it’s being managed by us for the public good, but all of these monies that you see in the Unclaimed Property Trust Fund are monies that belong to someone.”

The office is in the first phases of a pilot program to add child support and crime victims’ restitution payments to the system, Metcalf said. Those pilot programs will likely last a year or so before it can be fully implemented.

Metcalf, a Republican who is halfway through his first term as state treasurer, told the Lantern he plans to run for reelection in 2027.

“It’s a great job,” he added. “Serving the people of the commonwealth is the greatest honor extended to me, and we don’t take for granted what we’re doing.”
