OCTC President's List Spring 2026

by Hailey Pickle

OWENSBORO, KY - The Owensboro Community & Technical College (OCTC) President's List recognizes the academic excellence of full-time and part-time students in the Spring 2026 semester earning all A grades in at least 12 hours of coursework numbered 100 or above.

The following students, from Muhlenberg County, are recognized for achieving this level of distinction for the Spring 2026 semester. Kaylee Ann Angus, Hudson Madix Brannon, Taylor Lee Hamersly, Matthew Jacob Kramer, Alana Long, Summer Rachelle McKinney, and Sumner Shelton.

Owensboro Community & Technical College is one of the sixteen community and technical colleges that make up the Kentucky Community & Technical College System. OCTC serves the KY counties of Daviess, Hancock, Ohio and McLean. OCTC has three campuses in Daviess County and a Center and Annex in Hancock County. OCTC strives to serve the communities in the service area by providing associate degree education for transfer, state of the art technical education for students focusing on entering the workforce, customized business and industry solutions through the Workforce Solutions division, and adult education and business and industry testing through the SkillTrain unit.

KY 181 Widening Project brings road closure north of Greenville

GREENVILLE—A section of KY 181 north of Greenville is now fully closed as part of an $8 million highway widening project, with crews working toward the Western Kentucky Parkway interchange.

The closure is located at the 13.6 mile point, just north of Henderson Lane, and is expected to last up to 60 days while crews construct concrete box culverts and remove a hill along the project route.

The widening project will add approximately eight feet to KY 181 and improve drainage along the stretch between Depot Street and the Western Kentucky Parkway. Motorists traveling that corridor are urged to plan accordingly and allow for delays.

Cruisin' for Critters Coming to Downtown Central City June 6

Car enthusiasts and animal lovers have a reason to head to Downtown Central City on Saturday, June 6, when Cruisin' for Critters rolls in from 2:00 to 6:00 PM.

The cruise-in is free to enter, with all donations going directly to the Muhlenberg Humane Society. Food trucks will be on site, and pets will be available for adoption — meaning you might just leave with more than you came with.

The event is sponsored by Central City Tourism and Kentucky Motorsports and is part of what organizers are calling an exciting 2026 tourism season for the community. Food and beverage vendors interested in participating can pick up an application at the Central City Tourist and Convention Commission office at 200 North Street during regular business hours.
