Household Hints

✓Clean makeup brushes with original Listerine mouth wash. Dispense 1/2 cup Listerine in a small bowl; dip soiled makeup brushes in the mixture; and then swipe brush over a clean tissue.

✓Clean a microwave oven easily by heating a cup of water for 1-2 minutes in the oven. The steam will soften any food residue and the oven can be wiped clean.

✓Use a hand held tin can opener to open ridged hard plastic packages. Place the opener along the edge of the plastic enclosure and turn the handle.

✓Make your own scented dryer sponges from new kitchen sponges. Cut sponges in half and drop 2-4 into a container with a mixture of isopropyl alcohol, your favorite scented fabric softener and water (1/2 cup each). When drying clothes, squeeze liquid from 1/2 sponge and place in dryer with clothes.

✓When traveling, repurpose a plastic pill organizer to keep jewelry (necklaces and earrings) untangled and organized.

Ramblings

With Miss Mary

Hope you all had a very merry Christmas.

My grandson, Josh, has two sons and four step-sons, all within the age of six and eight. One is a set of twins and all these boys are almost the same size and look so much alike. Two of the boys were in the hospital getting their tonsils removed. It was so cute—the hospital put them in the same room and let them sit on the same bed to play.

Wow! At three p.m. Christmas Eve the temperature was 62 degrees. I hope it stays this way for a few weeks. The sun is shining brightly and it looks lovely outside.

It is so funny how over the years families start making their own Christmas traditions. My second daughter, Chris, and her family celebrate what they call “Christmas Adam” on December 23rd. Our oldest girl, Colleen, and her family go to their oldest son’s home on December 24th for what they call “brunch” with a really fancy table of food and then they exchange gifts that they had drawn names for. This left all the kids free to spend Christmas Day with their kids at their own homes.

Here it is Saturday afternoon. I am waiting for my granddaughter, Chan, to get off work and come by and pick me up and take me to the emergency room. I hope they will be able to help me. I feel like a big balloon filled with water.

Chandra took me to Jackson Hospital at about 3:00 p.m.. She stayed with me until they put me in a room at about 7:00 p.m. I have pneumonia and a few other things. They have really been good to me here. They have the pneumonia mostly under control but the fluid simply won’t leave my legs. It is really weird but they are working on it.

I did not get one of these columns ready last week because I was so sick. I hope to get this one in the paper this week.

‘ve always thought of myself as a strong woman. I’ve been in hospitals many times in my 80 years and had my arms poked and prodded and hurt so bad I have moaned and groaned many times but I never cried. That is till this time. This young lady was trying to draw blood. I was biting my lips trying to stay quiet when she hit something and I felt like my arm was coming apart. My body literally lifted up off the bed and I let out a blood curdling scream. When my body settled I cried. Only lasted a few minutes. I hope to never be forced to cry again.

My friend, Cindy, has been stuck at home for a couple of weeks since she broke the axle in her car. Thankfully, she got it fixed this weekend and came to see me first thing. I am so glad she is finally able to get out and about. She is not used to sitting at home. It was nice to see her.

Chandra brought me my magnifying mirror and tweezers so I could get rid of my chin whiskers. I hate having these things on my chin.

Cindy brought me a nice Amish book to read. It is by Jodi Picoult. She is quite good. Well here I am in I.C.U. I was taken by surprise when they came into my room and started picking my stuff up and said they were moving me to the I.C.U. Nearly gave me a heart attack till they explained that I needed a special medicine that could only be administered in I.C.U. So no idea how long I will be here. Hope the medicine works. I’m missing home!

Well here it is Monday morning and I am now hooked up to two I.V.s. I hate all these wires and tubes hooked up to me. Sure makes it hard to go to the bathroom or even lay in bed.

The doctor came in today and said, “Mary, we had you approved for a week of therapy but then you took a dive on us and got worse.” He said they quickly canceled the therapy. But he said, “As soon as we get you on your feet, we’ll make a second go at approval for the therapy.”

They sure are feeding me well. That is a good thing, but all my finger tips are black and blue and very sore. I’m tired, guys. So very tired. I know I am going to get better. The good Lord has something for me to do before I leave this old earth. I just wish I knew what that is. Please pray for me.

One bad thing about I.C.U. is cell phone service. It is impossible. Oh well, I really don’t feel like talking a lot anyway.

Time to say so long once more. Take care. Try to stay warm and safe, and remember, “I care.”
