As the say knowledge is power, both are needed for preparedness and safety of people.

I think it's important to have both flood & tornado warnings especially where we've experienced both listening to weather alerts and watching the news always keeps me up to date with the weather

Given how bad the flooding seems to be getting in the last few years I'd prefer the severe thunderstorm watch/tornado warnings. I was unable to get up my road the other day and I don't ever remember it flooding that bad especially that quick.
Which after 2012 I now worry about tornadoes more than I did before. I don't mind a thunderstorm at all just not too fond of all the other things.

Thunderstorm/Tornado warning since I live in a flood prone area.

I would rather have a server thunderstorm/tornado warning, because if you were out, be safer to get higher ground if you were in a flood warning
