

WEEK: July 23, 2025

75¢

Allyson Dix, Managing Editor

Cave City is looking to fill a vacant seat on the council following former Councilman Brandon Wright's resignation in late June.

CAVE CITY, Continued on Page A6

▲ Photo | Damon Stone, Freelance Reporter

▲ Photo | Damon Stone, Freelance Reporter

Damon Stone
Freelance Reporter

struct a new solar farm in the northwestern region of Barren County.

Linda Bridwell, executive director of the Public Service Commission, started the meeting by presenting information pertaining to the case, being case number 2024-00337, and explaining the process of application.

SOLAR, Continued on Page A12

▲ Photo | Submitted

Kyra Moore is the inaugural winner of the James Bailey Award at the 2025 Barren County Fair Beef Show. Bailey was a longtime member of the Temple Hill Lion's Club and he passed away last year shortly after the 2024 fair. This award will be given to the Supreme Jr. Champion of the Beef Show in memory of Mr. Bailey.

Kalee Gapinski, Freelance Reporter

Glasgow Police Chief Guy Howie talks with the city council about a new ordinance for multiple false security alarms the department is responding to.

The Glasgow City Council approved in a 6-3 vote the second reading of an ordinance pertaining to compensation for the

GLASGOW, Continued on Page A7

▲ Photo | SCRTC

The first board consisted of A.W. Ross, Paul Young, J.J. Crouch, Roger Glass, and Robert Eaton.

Nicole Randall
SCRTC Marketing and Sales

What began as a visionary effort to connect rural homes to telephone service has grown into one of South-Central Kentucky's most trusted and vital community institutions. As South Central Rural Telecommunications Cooperative (SCRTC) celebrates its 75th anniversary this summer, it stands as a symbol of perseverance, innovation, and local service, still rooted in the same cooperative values that sparked its founding in 1950.

Today, SCRTC provides broadband internet, television, My Stream TV, tele-

SCRTC—Continued on Page A11

Follow us online

94922 65918

Konagher Smith, Realtor
270-670-5005