Woodland named to US Ryder Cup vice captain post

Field Level Media

U.S. captain Keegan Bradley named Gary Woodland as his fifth and final vice captain for September's Ryder Cup on Wednesday.

Woodland, 41, joins fellow vice captains Jim Furyk, Kevin Kisner, Webb Simpson and Brandt Snedeker for the biennial golf competition against Team Europe, scheduled for Sept. 26-28 at Bethpage Black in Farmingdale, N.Y.

It will mark the first Ryder Cup appearance as a vice captain or player for Woodland, who did represent the U.S. in a 2019 Presidents Cup triumph in Australia.

"I am extremely excited and grateful to Keegan for the opportunity to support the U.S. Team at the 2025 Ryder Cup," Woodland said. "Keegan's passion for this event is contagious and I am thrilled to be a part of it. With just over two months to go until we arrive at Bethpage, I am fully committed to doing everything I can to help Keegan as well as our team of vice captains and players.'

Woodland has recorded four wins on the PGA Tour, including the 2019 U.S. Open at Pebble Beach in California. His best finish this season was a T2 at the Texas Children's Houston Open in March.

The Topeka, Kan., native received the 2025 PGA Tour Courage Award after undergoing brain surgery in September 2023.

"I have an incredible amount of respect and admiration for Gary and all he has accomplished in this game," Bradley said. "As a major champion and someone who is still competing at a high level, he is well aware of the demands of performing on golf's biggest stages. He will be a valuable leader for us over the coming months and throughout the 2025 Ryder Cup at Bethpage Black."

No. 6 Keys, Osaka shown Wimbledon exit

Field Level Media

Russia's Anastasia Pavlyuchenkova rallied to reach the Round of 16 at Wimbledon on Friday with a 3-6, 6-4, 6-4 win against Japan's Naomi Osaka.

Pavlyuchenkova raced to 3-0 leads in each of the last two sets and held off the four-time Grand Slam winner in two hours and three minutes.

Osaka struck 15 aces but saved only three of eight break points. It was her fourth consecutive loss in matches that went to three sets.

"I have nothing positive to say about myself," Osaka said after the match. "I'm just going to be a negative human being today. I'm so sorry. I have nothing positive to say about myself, which is something I'm working on."

Osaka finished with more winners (33-31) and fewer unforced errors

Anastasia Pavlyuchenkova returns against Naomi Osaka on Friday at the Wimbledon Championships.

(35-27).

"It's not like I can really even be mad at myself,' Osaka said. "I was thinking about the break points that I had. She hit some really good serves. Then she hit a backhand. I can't really do that much about it."

Pavlyuchenkova, 34, reached her first grass-court semifinal last week at Eastbourne and is attempting to reach the quarterfinals at a major for the 10th time. Standing in her way is home hopeful Sonay Kartal, who came from 4-1 down in the first set to defeat French qualifier Diane Parry.

Germany's Laura Siegemund knocked out No. 6 seed Madison Keys 6-3, 6-3 in just 94 minutes.

Keys won just one of the 19 points on her second serve and Siegemund converted five of 13 break chances. Keys finished with 31 unforced errors and 16 winners, compared to 11 unforced errors and 19 winners for Siegemund.

Siegemund, 37, made it past the third round for the first time at Wimbledon. Her next opponent will be Argentina's Solana Sierra, who defeated Spain's Cristina Bucsa 7-5, 1-6, 6-1. Sierra became the first lucky loser to reach the fourth round in the women's singles at Wimbledon in the Open era (since 1968).

No. 13 seed Amanda Anisimova overcame eight double faults and held off Hungary's Dalma Galfi 6-3, 5-7, 6-3. No. 30 Linda Noskova of the Czech Republic eliminated Russia's Kamilla Rakhimova 7-6 (6), 7-5.

also made it known the league would like to expand the number of international games to at least 16.

From an NFLPA perspective, the added game and additional travel bring obvious player safety concerns up for discussion.

Still, it's believed the expanded schedule is an inevitability. It's just a matter of when the NFLPA will be willing to discuss and negotiate. The current Collective Bargaining Agreement (CBA) expires after the 2030 season.

Report: NFLPA not ready to talk 18-game season

Field Level Media

The NFL and commissioner Roger Goodell have made many overtures about the league having an expanded 18-game regular-season schedule in its future, but according to sources, the NFL Players Association has not been willing to discuss it just vet.

According to a Washington Post report Tuesday, the NFLPA is not expected to formally negotiate with the NFL and team owners on a potential 18-game schedule and other issues regarding the labor agreement until "at least early next year."

Per Mike Florio of Pro Football Talk, the "reason for the delay isn't clear."

Goodell and the team owners have been pushing for the expanded schedule to improve the league's position from a media rights perspective, particularly in preparation for a new media package being on the line. Goodell has
