Nationals name bench coach Cairo interim manager

Field Level Media

The Washington Nationals named bench coach Miguel Cairo their interim manager after Dave Martinez was fired on Sunday.

The decision was announced by interim general manager Mike DeBartolo, who took over his role when general manager Mike Rizzo also was fired on Sunday.

Cairo was reportedly hesitant to take over for Martinez and asked for some time to ponder the opportunity. The club reportedly considered Triple-A manager Matthew LeCroy on an interim basis.

“Miguel is well-respected in our organization and around baseball,” DeBartolo said in a news release. “A diligent worker and student of the game, he has a proven track record of showing strong leadership in a variety of situations, and I believe that his voice and energy will serve as a catalyst to our team and our fan base in the second half of the season.”

Cairo, 51, finished the 2022 season as the Chicago White Sox manager after Tony La Russa stepped aside because of an undisclosed medical condition. The White Sox went 18-16 down the stretch but failed to reach the playoffs.

Marlins pitchers stifle Reds bats in series opener

Field Level Media

Janson Junk held the Cincinnati Reds to one hit over six innings and Agustín Ramirez provided the pop to lead the Miami Marlins to a 5-1 road win Monday.

Junk (3-1), Lake Bachar and Anthony Bender teamed to hold the Reds to just three hits as the Marlins won for the 11th time in their last 14. The Reds had just one hit through eight, but Bender came on with runners on the corners and two outs to strike out Austin Hays for his second save.

Ramirez went 2-for-4, scoring twice and driving in a pair. He doubled and hit his 14th home run of the season, a seventh-inning shot to the second deck in left field. Xavier Edwards also went 3-for-5 with two doubles and a run.

Junk threw six innings, matching his season high set last Wednesday against the Minnesota Twins. This time, though, he came away with the victory as he allowed only an unearned run and struck out three.

A pair of two-out hits in the fifth off Reds starter Brady Singer (7-7) put the Marlins ahead. Ramirez doubled to score Edwards, who reached on a one-out double. Liam Hicks then singled Ramirez home.

Those were the only runs Singer allowed. He gave up seven hits and a walk and struck out three in five innings.

A combination of aggressive Marlins baserunning and poor fielding from the Reds helped Miami tack on two runs in the sixth. Eric Wagaman led off with a single and then advanced to third on Connor Norby's ground-out to third.

Derek Hill hit a chopper to Noelvi Marte at third, but Marte's throw home sailed over catcher Tyler Stephenson, allowing Wagon to score. Reliever Lyan Richardson backed up the play, but his throw to second went into the outfield, allowing Hill to reach third. He scored on Javier Sanoja's sacrifice fly to right.

Cincinnati scratched across its run without a hit. Junk, who hadn't walked a batter since June 9, issued back-to-back free passes to Hays and Gavin Lux to start the second. Hays scored on Stephenson's sacrifice fly to right.

The Reds, who have lost three straight, have managed just three runs over their last 31 innings.
