investigation of the patient's profile confirmed, that (the pharmacy) dispensed medications to the PIC's (pharmacist in chief's) paramour and pharmacy technician ... on multiple occasions," the order says. The pharmacist in chief and the tech who received the medications "admitted to this conduct," the order says. The prescriptions were entered into the pharmacy's computer system with "Wilson Rx" as the prescriber, the order says.

The pharmacy also "failed to provide adequate security of its controlled substances and legend drugs, by allowing employees to be in the pharmacy without a pharmacist present," the order says. A non-pharmacy employee had to enter the pharmacy to turn off the alarm when she arrived at 8 a.m., before the pharmacy area was open or a pharmacist was on-scene, the order says. A pharmacy technician was allowed to stay in the pharmacy while the pharmacist was out, the order says.

A pharmacy tech not registered with the board also worked in the pharmacy, as well as in another part of the store, beginning on October, 2024. The tech didn't file an application to register with the board until February of this year, the order says.

Board of Pharmacy general counsel Jessica

Brown said in an email the complaint is still under investigation, and that more information will be available after the board's next meeting on Sept. 18.
