

After four decades, Corso to retire from 'College GameDay'

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Lee Corso's nearly four-decade run on ESPN's "College GameDay" is coming to an end.

Corso, the longtime ESPN broadcaster and folksy former coach widely known for his endearing expressions and elaborate headgear picks, is set to retire after a career with the show that began in 1987, ESPN announced. His final broadcast will be Aug. 30 — Week 1 of the 2025 college football season — and the network said additional programming to celebrate Corso also is planned.

"My family and I will be forever indebted for the opportunity to be part of ESPN and 'College GameDay' for nearly 40 years," Corso said in a statement to ESPN. "I have a treasure of many friends, fond memories and some unusual experiences to take with me into retirement."

Corso, who turns 90 in August, began his popular headgear segment in October 1995 at a game at Ohio State. Since then, he has gone 286-144 in 430 selections wearing everything from helmets and mascot heads to dressing up as the Fighting Irish leprechaun from Notre Dame, the Stanford tree and historic figures James Madison and Benjamin Franklin.

"Not so fast, my friend" is one of his most well-known comments and his good humor alongside Kirk Herbstreit, Rece Davis and Desmond Howard and many others going back more than three decades helped make Corso and the show a beloved staple for millions on college football Saturdays.

Corso's career has lasted through a health scare in 2009, when he suffered a stroke that left him unable to speaking for a while. He returned to "College GameDay" later that year. Although he hasn't joined his colleagues as much on the road in recent years, Corso was in Atlanta for last year's national title game between Ohio State and Notre Dame.

Corso was a college and pro football coach for 28 years before transitioning to broadcasting. He coached 15 years in college at Louisville, Indiana and Northern Illinois.

Kentucky gets combo guard Aberdeen from portal

BY AARON GERSON
THE CATS' PAUSE

Mark Pope and Kentucky completed its 2025-26 roster puzzle with the addition of Florida transfer combo guard Denzel Aberdeen.

Aberdeen, a 6-foot-5, 190-point guard from Orlando, Florida, is a four-star transfer ranked the 59th best player in the transfer portal and fifth best combo guard per 247sports' rankings.

The Orlando native signed with the home state Gators as a three-star prospect ranked the 150th best player in the 2023 signing class per 247sports.

He played each of his first three college seasons for coach Todd Golden, and Aberdeen was a key piece to Florida's run to the NCAA championship this past season.

Aberdeen played in all 39 games, starting five, and on the year averaged 7.7 points, 1.7 rebounds, and 1.4 assists per game while shooting 41.8% from the field and 35% (36-for-103) from three.

Aberdeen averaged eight points per game during Florida's three-game run to an SEC Tournament title, and in the Gators' six NCAA Tournament games Aberdeen averaged six points, 1.8 rebounds per game and shot 40% from three. He scored a tournament-high 12 points in an NCAA Sweet 16 victory over Maryland, and he had seven points and two rebounds in the national championship game against Houston.

He will have one season of eligibility remaining to use at Kentucky.

Aberdeen is Kentucky's fifth transfer portal addition made so far this offseason joining Pittsburgh point guard Jaland Lowe, Tulane small forward/guard Kam Williams, Alabama power forward Mouhamed Dioubate and Arizona State center Jayden Quaintance.

Kentucky now has 13 scholarship players lined up for the 2025-26 season, including second-team All-SEC selection Otega Oweh, who is currently testing the NBA Draft waters. If Oweh returns, the Wildcats roster likely is complete.

In the 24-25 regular season, Aberdeen had a four-game stretch where he moved into the starting lineup for Florida to replace an injured Alijah Martin, and averaged 16.2 points, 2.7 rebounds and 1.7 steals per game while shooting 45.3% from three. The run included going for 22 points in a win over South Carolina, 20 points in a win over then-ranked No. 22 Mississippi State and going for 10 points in a road win over then-ranked No. 1 Auburn. Overall as a starter, he averaged 14.4 points and shot 41.4% from three.

Post 15 expresses thanks to telecommunications staff

BY CKNJ STAFF

Kentucky State Police Post 15 telecommunications will be recognized alongside more than 200,000 emergency communication professionals in the country during National Public Safety Telecommunicators Week, observed this year from April 13-19.

These dedicated professionals are the first point of contact in emergencies, providing critical assistance to those in need, often in high-pressure situations, a KSP news release announcing the recognition said.

Post 15, which is based in Columbia, employs 10 telecommunicators who answered 71,688 calls for service, in its 11 county service area which includes Taylor County.

"During National Public Safety Telecommunicators Week, KSP proudly honors the dedicated men and women who stand as the critical link between our Troopers and the communities we serve," Post 15 Telecommunications Manager Miranda Luttrell said in the release. "Their professionalism, calm under pressure and unwavering commitment are vital to our mission of serving the Commonwealth."

KSP telecommunicators are responsible for dispatching state police troopers, Commercial Vehicle Enforcement officers, Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Conservation officers and other emergency responders.

Their duties include coordinating emergency responses, notifying administrative channels, running vehicle and criminal background checks and providing crucial information to first responders while managing multiple calls and radio traffic. They provide a reassuring voice when someone calls for help.

The Kentucky State Police Foundation is honoring the dedication of KSP's telecommunicators by providing funding that each post can use to show appreciation through meals, treats or small gifts.
