BREAD OF LIFE

Healing is the children’s bread. Isaiah 53:5 he was wounded for our transgressions He was bruised for our iniquities: the chastisement for our peace was upon Him and by His stripes we are healed. Jesus took not only your sins on the cross but also your sickness. He bore in His body all that causes you heartache, oppression, depression, pain, or suffering. Jesus took it all. Matthew 8:17 refers to Isaiahs prophecy about Jesus saying He Himself took our infirmities and bore our sickness. Start believing God’s word to-day and speak it out of your mouth. I am healed by the stripes of Jesus. I give this care and heartache to you, Lord and I thank you that by your stripes I am healed. People say “Well, whatever God’s will is”, we, as children of God need to find out what the perfect will of God is. It’s the word of God. The New Testament is God’s will for our lives. Look at III John verse 2 Beloved, I wish above all things that thou mayest prosper and be in health, even as thy soul prospereth. Galatians 3:13-14 You are redeemed from the curse. Christ has redeemed us from the curse of the law, having become a curse for us, for it is written cursed is everyone who hangs on a tree that the Blessing of Abraham might come upon the Gentiles in Christ Jesus. What was, the curse of the Law? It was sin, sickness and poverty. Jesus came into the world and gave himself willingly to di in your place on the cross, redeeming you from the curse. II Timothy1:10 But is now made manifest by the appearing of our savior Jesus Christ, who hath abolished death and hath brought life and immortality to light through the gospel. Every believer should shout now over what Jesus has done on calvary. Romans 5:2 says we have access by faith into the grace of God. Therefore if you want grace for the new birth, you must receive it by faith. If you want God’s grace for healing, you must receive it by faith. How great is our God! That He would give us the desires of our heart. Psalm 37:4 Therefore, I say unto you, what things so ever ye desire, when ye pray, believe that ye receive them and ye shall have them. Ephesians 6:16 Above all taking the shield of faith, where with ye shall be able to quench all the fiery darts of the wicked. John 4:14 If ye shall ask anything in my name, I will do it. Jesus says the prayer of faith shall save the sick. John 5:6 When Jesus saw him lie and knew that he had been now a long time in that case, He said unto him “Wilt thou be made whole” See Jesus won’t force himself on us but he is always willing if we only believe. Go your way and as thou believed so be it unto you.

A car left the roadway on Sunday evening, March 2, 2025, between 7:30 and 8:00pm, and overturned on the train tracks in the city limits of Carlisle, Ky.

The accident occurred at the end of Upper Jackstown Road and South Elm Street behind the Carlisle Fire Department. The vehicle left the roadway, traveled down an embankment, and landed upside down the train tracks.

Nicholas County Deputy Sheriff Shane Adams and Carlisle Police Officer Scott Johnson investigated the rollover accident.

No further details were known at press time.

What Time Is It?

Next Sunday, March 9, (2025) is the start of Daylight Saving Time (DST). There are persons I know, that really do not like DST. Personally, I like it. I like having longer days in the summer. I also like getting that extra hour of sleep in autumn when DST starts, Of course I must quickly say I have to give that hour of sleep back come the following spring, but that is OK.

It is a common myth in the United States that DST was first implemented for the benefit of farmers. In reality, farmers have been one of the strongest lobbying groups against DST since it was first implemented. The factors that influence farming schedules, such as morning dew and dairy cattle's readiness to be milked, are ultimately dictated by the sun, so the clock change introduces unnecessary challenges.

DST was first implemented in the US with the Standard Time Act of 1918, a wartime measure for seven months during World War I in the interest of adding more daylight hours to conserve energy resources. Year-round DST, or "War Time", was implemented again during World War II. After the war, local jurisdictions were free to choose if and when to observe DST until the Uniform Time Act which standardized DST in 1966. Permanent daylight saving time was enacted for the winter of 1974, but there were complaints of children going to school in the dark and working people commuting and starting their work day in pitch darkness during the winter, and it was repealed a year later

Around 34 percent of the world's countries use DST. Some countries observe it only in some regions. In Canada, all of Yukon, most of Saskatchewan, and parts of Nunavut, Ontario, British Columbia and Quebec do not observe DST. It is observed by four Australian states and one territory. In the United States, it is observed by all states except Hawaii and Arizona (within the latter, however, the Navajo Nation does observe it).

Historically, several ancient societies adopted seasonal changes to their timekeeping to make better use of daylight; Roman timekeeping even included changes to water clocks to accommodate this. However, these were changes to the time divisions of the day rather than setting the whole clock forward. In a satirical letter to the editor of the Journal de Paris in 1784, Benjamin Franklin suggested that if Parisians could only wake up earlier in the summer they would economize on candle and oil usage, but he did not propose changing the clocks. In 1895, New Zealand entomologist and astronomer George Hudson made the first realistic proposal to change clocks by two hours every spring to the Wellington Philosophical Society, but this was not implemented until 1928 and in another form. In 1907, William Willett proposed the adoption of British Summer Time as a way to save energy; although seriously considered by Parliament, it was not implemented until 1916.

There are places in the United States which have chosen not to participate in DST. Arizona (with the exception of the Navajo Nation), Hawaii, and the five populated territories (American Samoa, Guam, Puerto Rico, the Northern Mariana Islands, and the US Virgin Islands) do not participate in daylight saving time. Indiana only began participating in daylight saving time as recently as 2006. Since 2018.
