Turkey hunters get one week

BY PAT CARDIN
OUTDOORS WRITER

This Saturday is the beginning of the first of two firearm seasons for turkey hunter this year.

It is just one week long, opening Saturday and closing on Friday, Oct. 30. Another firearm season opens Dec. 5 and runs through Dec. 11.

During this firearm season, the bag limit is two-turkey total for both seasons, so if you tag both during this first season, you're finished for the year.

Only one turkey may be taken per day. Only one turkey may have a beard of 3 inches or longer.

You cannot hunt over bait for turkey and cannot hunt where bait has been brought in for at least 30 days after the bait has been removed. Hunting is allowed wherever a bonafide agriculture crop has been harvested.

Archery season is in and archers can hunt with their archery equipment during the firearm season if they prefer. Hunter orange is not required during the turkey season.

All turkey harvested must be called in to the Telecheck System no later than midnight the day of the harvest. If you do harvest a turkey that has a band on its leg, go online and type in Reporting Turkey Leg Band and follow the instructions to report and help the Department of Fish and Wildlife learn more about turkeys and improve their knowledge of movement in the state.

Any youth hunting during the season that is 15 years old or younger must be accompanied by an adult who can take immediate control of their firearm.

All turkey hunters must have in possession a Kentucky State Hunting license and a Fall Turkey Tag.

Check fw.ky.gov for all the details for hunting turkey.
